

Perspective of Hainesville by Robert I. Legge, President of the Village of Hainesville

I have been asked by the author of this History of Hainesville, to look into the future, and make predictions of the future course of our historic village.

I think the village will progress slowly, but surely, because in spite of our small population, we are very fortunate in having several capable young men and women who are interested and concerned about their future and the future of the Village of Hainesville. I believe that there will be several small businesses, and services operating on both sides of Routes 120 and 134, and also along Hainesville Road.

I see several new homes being built in the residential areas and it follows that the population will, at least, double by 1986. I believe that a Village Hall will be constructed and land will be set aside for recreational activities for our children.

These visions and predictions will come true only if dedication to community services, by the capable young men and women within the Village is continued, as I am sure it will be.

This village, or any village, will prosper only as much as the people within the village want it to prosper.

These are my hopes and predictions for the Village of Hainesville.

If they are carried out, the residents can be proud to live in, and raise their families in the Village of Hainesville.

With a lot of work, a lot of imagination, and with the help of God, these predictions can come true.

Sincerely,
Robert I Legge, Mayor
August, 1976

Acknowledgement of Gratitude

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped to make this book possible.

It has been a real joy in compiling this book for my village that is one hundred and thirty years old.

I have met many wonderful people, and they have been very cooperative in supplying me with information about Hainesville. Everything in this book is deemed to be accurate, but not guaranteed perfect.

I want to thank the Lake County Museum in Wauconda, for being most gracious in helping me with the research that had to be made. My thanks are also in order to Kevin Shay and Richard Davis of Shay & Davis Photography in McHenry, for the fine photography work they did of Hainesville as it is today.

Also, thank you, Leila Lynn, for the wonderful job of typing you did to make this book a complete success.

I do not know what the future holds for Hainesville, but I am optimistic about the growth and change that will soon encompass this small village.

Joanne E. Johnson

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Portrait & Biographical Album of Lake County, Illinois 1891
Halsey's History
Historical Encyclopedia of Illinois and History of Lake County
The County Archives of the State of Illinois
National Archives, Washignton, D. C.
Lake County Museum
Mrs. Ruth Mogg, Grayslake, Illinois
Grayslake Times
News-Sun Articles
Mrs. Blanche Fontana, Hainesville, Illinois
Mrs. Mary Scheffler, Hainesville, Illinois
Robert and Amelia Legge, Hainesville, Illinois
Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railway Company
Lyle Loftus, Grayslake, Illinois
Superintendent of Schools, Lake County, Waukegan, Illinois
National Weather Service, Chicago, Illinois
Grayslake Gelatin Company
Past & Present Lake County, 1877
Franklin Hendee, Mundelein, Illinois
Naomi McCandless, Round Lake, Illinois
Robert Wickes, Grayslake, Illinois
Stewart Smith, Hainesville, Illinois
Seattle Times, Seattle, Washington
Centennial Edition of News-Sun Articles, 1935

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Historical & Statistical Sketches of Lake County, by Haines 1852

Waukegan Post Articles

Waukegan Weekly Gazette

House Journals of Illinois for 1867, 1869, 1875, 1885 & 1887

Orville Hook, Grayslake, Illinois

History of Avon, Avon Centre, District #47, 1918

History of Fort Hill School District #45, 1918

History of Round Lake School District #44, of Avon, 1918